Taiwan is considered one of the most developed countries in Asia. Each year, millions of tourists visit Taiwan for fun and glamour. The country has everything, from delicious cuisines to fascinating landmarks. From July 2022, Taiwan has resumed routine visa services for all visa categories!If you want to visit Taiwan, or any other country for that matter, the most important thing you need is a travel document, aka a visa. When it comes to Taiwan, applicants have two options: they can either apply for a traditional visa, or an electronic visa. Taiwan e-Visa - An OverviewCompared to a traditional visa, an e-visa is a more convenient option. You can get this travel document from the comfort of your home. No need to visit the Taiwan embassy or consulate office. No need to follow complicated steps. You dont even have to schedule a visa interview. This entire process is streamlined!Taiwan e-visa is an official electronic document issued by the Republic of China (ROC) overseas missions. It allows foreign nationals to enter Taiwan with a traditional paper or stamp visa. Citizens of foreign countries can apply for a Taiwan e-visa for both tourism and business purposes, including:Visiting relatives or friendsMeeting with business associatesEnrolling in short-term training programsExploring the countryValidity PeriodTaiwan e-visas are issued for short-term stays. It is a single-entry travel document that international travelers can apply for to stay in the country for 30 consecutive days. It comes with a validity period of 90 days. Afterward, you'll need to apply for a new e-visa if you want to enter Taiwan one more time!Eligibility CriteriaNot all foreign nationals are eligible for Taiwan e-visa. Currently, Bahrain, South Arabia, Oman, Peru, Colombia, and some other countries are eligible for Taiwan nonimmigrant visas. In addition, if foreign national wants to enter Taiwan for purposes other than tourism and business, they must obtain a traditional visa from the nearest embassy!Taiwan e-Visa RequirementsBefore you apply for a Taiwan visa online, you must fulfill some visa requirements. You need the following documents to apply for an e-visa:Valid Passport - You must have an original passport from one of the eligible countries. Make sure your passport has at least 2 blank pages for stamps as well as 3 months of validity remaining.E-mail Address - An applicant's email address will be electronically linked to their passport. Upon approval, they will receive their travel documents via email as well. So, make sure you have a valid and working email address.Means of Payment - You'll need to pay the embassy fee as well as the visa service fee to get an e-visa. As this entire process is online, you'll, of course, need online payment options, such as a credit or debit card or a PayPal account.Photograph - Applicants are required to provide their recent passport-style photograph with a white background. Your photograph must be taken within the last 6 months.These are the most basic required documents to apply for a Taiwan e-visa. Besides these, ROC overseas missions might request to submit additional documents depending on your nationality and the purpose of the visit!Taiwan e-Visa Application ProcessIf you have all the above-mentioned documents, you can apply for a Taiwan e-visa online. The good news is that you dont need to visit the Taiwan embassy to apply for an online visa. This entire process can be done from the comfort of your home!All you need to do is visit VisaHQ, select your citizenship, and follow the following steps:Fill out the visa application formPay the visa fee using secure online payment optionsSubmit your online form with supporting documentsThat's it! This entire process can be done within 10 minutes. Afterward, you'll get your approved e-visa via email.To fill out the visa application form, you need to be extra careful. You are required to provide personal, contact, travel, and passport details. Make sure all the data provided in an application form is correct. Otherwise, your e-visa will be delayed or denied.Processing TimeThe processing time for a Taiwan e-visa also varies from applicant to applicant. The estimated processing time for an electronic visa is 3-4 days. However, if there are issues with your application, you might need to wait a little longer. Therefore, it's recommended to apply for a Taiwan e-visa at least 2 weeks prior to the intended departure date.Once you get your e-visa, you can pack your bag and enter Taiwan by air. Keep in mind that an e-visa does not guarantee your entry to the country; the immigration official has the final say. So, make sure you are fulfilling all the entry requirements while traveling to Taiwan! Learn how to get your electronic travel authorization for Taiwan quickly and easily. The Taiwan eVisa is an electronic travel authorization that allows foreign nationals to enter Taiwan. As an alternative to a paper visa, eVisas are much faster, easier, and more affordable than traditional visas from embassies or consulates.An eVisa for Taiwan entitles you to a single entry and stay of up to 30 days at a time within the validity period and stay in the country for tourism or business purposes, as well as for visiting relatives and attending international conferences and sporting events. Some countries are exempt from the visa requirement in Taiwan. These include EU citizens and Canadian, US, and Australian citizens. Nationals of Bahrain, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Burkina Faso, Colombia, Dominica, Ecuador, Kiribati, Kosovo, Kuwait, Mauritius, Montenegro, Oman, Panama, Peru, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Solomon Islands, Turkey, and the United Arab Emirates may apply for a Taiwan eVisa.In addition, nationals from other countries may apply if they are invited by the Taiwanese central government to attend international conferences, sporting events, trade fairs, or other activities. This also applies if the invitation is sponsored or organized by the central government, but the invitation is made through third parties. Another special authorization to apply for an eVisa is available for tourist groups from India, Indonesia, Vietnam, Myanmar, Cambodia, and Laos. For business trips, the recommendation of local Taiwan External Trade Development Council (TAITRA) offices, citizens from India, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Nepal, Bhutan, Pakistan, and Iran are also allowed to apply for eVisa. In order to obtain an eVisa for Taiwan, you must meet other requirements in addition to being a citizen of a country approved for the eVisa system. These include: You have a passport that is valid for at least 6 more monthsYou are not currently in possession of a valid paper visa for TaiwanYou are entering the country solely for a purpose permitted by an eVisa, such as tourism or business activities, visiting relatives, or attending international conferences and sporting events. Every traveler needs a separate eVisa for a stay in Taiwan. This also applies to children, regardless of whether your child is registered in your passport or has their own travel document. You may be required to provide some documents upon applying for your eVisa and upon entry into Taiwan. In addition to your passport, which must be valid for at least 6 months, you may be asked, for example, to submit supporting documents via email for the purpose of your Taiwan trip. Applying for the Taiwan eVisa costs 1,600 Taiwan dollars (NT$), which is the equivalent of about 49 or 52. Citizens of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Colombia, Kiribati, Kosovo, Mauritius, Montenegro, Panama, Peru, Solomon Islands, and Turkey receive the eVisa for Taiwan free of charge. The validity period of an eVisa for Taiwan is three months from the date of issue. It can be used for a single entry and a stay of 30 days or less.The three-month validity of a Taiwan eVisa starts from the date indicated on the approval form. You can enter on any date within the validity period and stay in the country for a maximum of 30 days. Completing the eVisa form on the eVisa application page of our partner Visa will only take a few minutes. To do this, have your passport, a valid email address, and travel details ready.All information you provide must be correct and truthful. Please also note that the information you enter, such as last name, first name, date of birth, passport number, nationality, and gender, must match the information in your passport. After your Taiwan eVisa application has been submitted and reviewed, you will receive an automatic notification to your email account. In addition to your passport, have a printout of your approved eVisa ready when you enter Taiwan. You will be required to present your electronic travel authorization to the National Immigration Office at the immigration checkpoint. With an eVisa for Taiwan, you can vacation, visit relatives and friends, and attend international conferences or sporting events for a maximum of 30 days at a time.However, if you plan to work, study, or stay with family in Taiwan for longer, you must apply for an appropriate visa at a Republic of China (ROC) foreign mis Do you have further questions about the Taiwan eVisa? Then you will surely find what you are looking for in our eVisa FAQ! We recommend applying for an eVisa at least seven days before your travel date. An eVisa cannot be extended. If you wish to stay in Taiwan longer than the allowed 30 days, you must contact a Republic of China (ROC) foreign mission to apply for a paper visa. Unless you are leaving the international transit area of the airport in Taiwan, you do not need an eVisa. If the data in your eVisa approval does not match the data in your passport, your eVisa will be invalid, and you will need to submit a new application. The Taiwan eVisa is valid for one entry only. Once you have entered Taiwan, the eVisa is considered invalid and cannot be used for further visits. If you wish to re-enter Taiwan after your first visit, you must apply for a new eVisa. Certain serious convictions may affect your eligibility to apply for a Taiwan eVisa. However, it is important that you truthfully disclose any criminal convictions on your application, as your case will be reviewed by the relevant authorities. The processing time for an eVisa application in Taiwan depends on various factors, such as the number of applications and individual circumstances. In general, most applications are processed within a few business days. It is advisable to submit your application early to allow for processing time and any unforeseen delays. If you are already in Taiwan on another visa or permit, you cannot apply for a Taiwan eVisa during your stay. The eVisa is only available to applicants outside of Taiwan at the time of application. The reasons for visa rejections are strictly confidential, and the Taiwanese government reserves the right not to disclose them to applicants. Should you wish to reapply, we strongly recommend waiting 2 to 3 months unless you can demonstrate significant changes from your previous application. It is strongly recommended that you provide documentation to support your eVisa reapplication. Unfortunately, there is no formal appeal process. However, you may contact your nearest Taiwanese diplomatic mission to inquire about alternative visa options. The eVisa for Taiwan is issued based on the purpose of travel as stated in the application. Changing the purpose of your visit after receiving the eVisa may result in problems with entry or cancellation of the visa. If your travel plans change significantly, it is advisable to apply for a new eVisa with the changed purpose. Currently, travel insurance is not required to obtain an eVisa for Taiwan. However, it is recommended to have a comprehensive insurance policy to be financially covered in case of unforeseen circumstances while traveling.
